

Set up for success as a mentee

Fact sheet

As a mentee, it's up to you to get the most out of the relationship

Here are some tips for success:

- Set clear objectives for six months and be ready to discuss those at the program launch.
- Rely on your mentor for guidance, not answers.
- Be open to feedback and willing to take it on board in your work.
- Try and set up your meetings well ahead of time. Your mentor is likely to be busy and may not always be available at short notice.
- Be punctual and show your appreciation - relationships work best when there's mutual respect.
- Don't seek different mentors while you're working with your current one.

Mentees can claim six CPD hours for their engagement in the program.
